

(a) Adding one activation direction to the base installs caving; random directions do not

(b) In-context activation runs through the same circuit

